How to WIN in the WINdy City

Despite what you may have heard, we know that Chicago is a city of winners. The Cubs (the Cubs??!!!), the Blackhawks, Michael and the Jordanaires, James Beard award-winning chefs, Jane Addams, the first American woman to win the Nobel peace prize, innovative architecture. Chicago gave us the skyscraper, the cell phone, the Ferris wheel, the Twinkie, deep-dish pizza, zippers, Cracker Jacks, McDonald's, open-heart surgery and the first African-American President. Good things happen in Chicago and those who live in and love the Windy City know that Chicago loves to win.

On May 12, 2017, Eagle International (www.eagle-law.com) returns to Chicago with another of its strategic educational conferences for claims professionals and the lawyers who serve them. This year, Eagle examines topics that cut right to the bottom line – issues that determine whether your company and your insureds will win and how you as a professional can succeed. Among the topics at this conference will be “Making Mediation Great Again: Tactics and Strategies That Trump The Plaintiff's Bar,” which will focus on key strategies that can be implemented to drive better results and which will feature a focused discussion about particular gender and diversity issues that can arise in the course of mediation. Also to be addressed is “That's Not Me! – Winning Cases and Better Claims Through Social Media,” which will explore how the new frontiers of communication can be used to defeat and minimize claims and win at trial. Finally, Eagle focus on “Consent Judgment? How Can This be Legal!” which will explore the emerging, relatively ignored and very dangerous situation in which an insured, typically when facing a reservation of rights, agrees to an adverse judgment and stipulates to a monetary judgment, typically in horrifying amounts. Are those judgments valid? Can the amount of the consent judgment be attacked by the insurer? What about the no settlements or admissions clause in the policy? Can this be legal? This very practical and important topic may surprise you and it may leave you gasping for air.

Guests at the conference will also hear from a leading insurance claims executive about the industry issues that are most likely to disturb our sleep over the next five years and what we can do about them now. As always, this year's Eagle conference will be led by very experienced lawyers and will feature a highly talented and diverse group of claims professionals who have all achieved great success in their positions. In addition, Eagle will offer its usual hospitality, featuring good food, good drink and its unique welcoming spirit and friendship. We hope that you will come and participate, come and learn and come and enjoy. We look forward to seeing you on May 12 at The Gwen Hotel in Chicago.
